Since creating the world's original consumer battery in 1896, Energizer has led the charge in industry innovation with a proud history of firsts, including the world's first AA lithium battery. The brand brings this forward thinking to environmental initiatives too, developing the first ever rechargeable battery system in 1958 and introducing the first zero-added mercury battery in 1989. Energizer Recharge batteries were also the first rechargeable to contain recycled batteries. The company partners with organisations that encourage, inform and empower consumers to recycle non-rechargeable batteries, as well as battery packaging. Depend on the power of Energizer batteries.
